ELDERS AND DEANS ELECTED
AT EVENT THURSDAY EVENING

SOCIETIES MAKE REPORTS ALSO

Robert Mitchener, Organist, And
Members Of Choir, Are Special
Guests For Event

The dining room of the Presbyterian church was filled last evening for the annual Family Supper which brought together a splendid representation of the membership of the church and congregation. Special tables were set for the children as usual. Here and there a table of young people was in evidence. The members of the choir, directed by Miss Kate Hammond, and the organist, Robert Mitchener, were guests. At the conclusion of the bountiful meal served so efficiently and graciously by the 1931-32 officers of the Woman's Circle, under the leadership of Mrs. Eva Stevenson, retiring president, the male quartet of the choir, composed of Prof. E. R. Smith, E. F. Osorn, R. H. Schlundt, and R. C. Kendall rendered a group of Negro Spirituals much to the delight of everyone.

The business meeting which followed brought forth unusually interesting reports from the church, its board of Elders, Deacons, and Trustees, and from the organizations, including the Church School, Woman's Circle, Men's Club, Junior and Tuxis Societies and the Student Work. Dick Comstock's report as president of the Junior C. E., received the most enthusiastic applause. The treasurers all reported a fine response in giving during the year. The amount handled by all the groups for current expenses was $6,025, and for benevolence, $775.

The elections resulted in the following being reelected for terms of three years each:

Elders—G. E. Black, H. C. B. Werneke.

Deacons—E. E. Coffman, T. C. Crawford.

Ed B. Lynch was elected a trustee to succeed C. C. Huestis who has served in this office faithfully for fourteen years and for much of that time as president of the board, and wished to be relieved.

A fine spirit of fellowship was manifest throughout the evening and the organization and officers received much applause for their successful efforts.

To Give Details Of Honor Slaying

TESTIMONY OF HUSBAND OF OUTRAGED WOMAN AWAITED
IN HAWAIIAN COURT

COURTROOM, Honolulu, T. H. April 15, (UP)—Judge and jury waited in a sultry courtroom today for a white-faced, shuddering young navy officer to unmask the honor slaying of Hawaiian Joe Kahahawai.

Only this final drama of the tragedy of his life remained to be told by Lieut. Thomas Hedges Massie as he related the stirring events culminating in Kahahawai's death and the murder trial of Massie, his society matron mother-in-law, Mrs. Grace Hubbard Fortescue, and two seamen, Albert Orren Jones and Edward John Lord.

Like a gentle father, Clarence Darrow stemmed the 26-year-old Kentuckian's rising emotions which neared the breaking point when he described the brutal attack on his blue-eyed bride by a gang of native hoodlums—of whom Kahahawai allegedly was one.

The brilliant Darrow announced insanity would be a defense plea, and Massie added to his tale in a passionate outburst, "It had a strange effect on my mind."

The famous Ala Moana case, as the trial of five natives accused of attacking Mrs. Massie was known, became the defense of the four Americans when Massie was called as their first witness.

Florid-faced John Kelley, who had just concluded the prosecution's circumstantial evidence, interrupted Darrow's questioning with a warning that he would object to bringing in the Ala Moana case unless insanity was to be the defense.

Darrow's face was an enigma as he answered "insanity will figure in the case—that is, for the one who shot the pistol."

CONCERT BY ORCHESTRA IS PLEASING

PROF. ROWLAND LEACH DIRECTS SYMPHONY ORGANIZATION

The DePauw Symphony orchestra, under the conductorship of Professor Rowland Leach, gave its annual spring concert last evening in Meharry hall. In some respects it was the most ambitious program ever given by the orchestra.

Beethoven's "Fifth," conceded to be the most perfect of symphonies, opened the program. The listener cannot help being aware of the vast plan of this symphony, and of the tremendous humanity Beethoven poured into it. Certain parts of this work are difficult, both for orchestra and conductor, and it was perhaps in this work that Beethoven took such delight in "unharnessing" the players while conducting. The orchestra maintained a high level of accuracy and interpretive skill throughout.

Professor Sheffield's interpretation of the C minor Concerto was clear cut and musically. While this concerto is by no means the most spectacular music penned by Beethoven, it contains much of the purely lyric and intimate. The slow movement is certainly one of the most deeply poetical pieces in existence. As a whole, the concerto would have been heard to better advantage had it not followed a symphony by the same composer and in the same key.

Followed then three short pieces—"Minuetto all' antico" by Karganoff, "Cossack Lullaby" by Jiraneck, and Grieg's "Eroic." These were in good contrast with the Beethoven preceding and the Sibelius "Finlandia" which closed the program. This latter is always one of the most effective of the modern tone poems, perhaps because its composer has put a little more to say than most modern composers. It was exceedingly well played.

A large audience heard the concert and was generous in its applause. Both Professors Sheffield and Leach were recalled several times.

Poultry Owners Skaters Warned

MAYOR W. L. DENMAN ASKS
THAT POULTRY BE KEPT CONFINED

Mayor W. L. Denman issued a double warning to roller skaters and poultry owners Friday morning. He requested that the former keep off the streets and asked that the latter keep their poultry confined to their own premises. Failure to heed the warnings is a violation of city ordinances, the mayor said.

The appeal to skaters was made, the mayor said, because he feared one of them would be seriously injured and he was attempting to prevent this or a more serious tragedy. Local streets have been thronged by skaters each night for several weeks, Mayor Denman stated, adding that the youngsters had been fortunate in escaping injury.

Many city residents have begun their spring gardening, and poultry, unless confined, can do much damage to the garden plots, he said. He asked that all poultry owners keep their fowls confined to their own premises to avoid trouble with neighbors.

INFORMATION IN KIDNAPING HELD SECRET

"WORKING ON CASE" BRIEF
STATEMENT BY LINDY
NEGOTIATORS

RETURN FROM FOUR-DAY TRIP

New Plan To Prevent Duplication Of Ransom Money Trick Approved
By Lindbergh

NORFOLK, Va., April 15 (UP)—Two Norfolk negotiators for the return of the kidnapped son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived here today from a four-day trip, announcing "we are continuing our work on the case."

The two men, John Hughes Curtis and Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, returned in a large sedan bearing a New Jersey license plate. It was not learned whose car they were driving. They came by way of Cape Charles, using the ferry from that city to Norfolk.

Curtis and Burrage issued this statement: "We are continuing our work on the case. During our absence we have conferred with Colonel Lindbergh four times at Hopewell. We regret we cannot give any further information at this time."

Admiral Burrage left here by train or boat last Saturday night and Curtis departed the next morning in a Navy plane, piloted by Lieut. George L. Richard.

In the absence of Curtis and Burrage, the Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, third negotiator, consistently has refused to give out any information as to their activity. Curtis was known to have held two conferences with the Colonel at his Soudland mountain home near Hopewell, but the admission that the Admiral also featured in the activity had not been revealed publicly.

During the two men's absence, the minister disclosed a plan which had been agreed upon which would forestall a duplication of the trick played on Dr. John F. Condon, the "Jafsie" negotiator, who paid out $50,000 ransom without effecting the recovery of the baby.

This plan provided for delivery of the child to the intermediaries before, or at the same time, the ransom was paid. It was submitted to Col. Lindbergh two weeks ago and was approved by him, Dean Dobson-Peacock said.

NEW YORK, April 15, (UP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife were on record today as expressing "our great appreciation to those members of the press, who in many instances have given us their cooperation, often to their own disadvantage."

This constituted their answer to a growing flood of private criticisms in some portions of the public concerning lengthy publication of stories on the kidnaping and its attendant searches.

The Lindberghs, torn by weeks of uncertainty and anxiety, have let it be known that they felt publicity, particularly in the early stages of the case, had been helpful, and in only a few instances have they asked the press to withhold details. Close friends of the couple have said that Col. Lindbergh now felt that probably publication of the serial numbers of his ransom bills had been helpful. And this was in the fact of his original temporary request—honored by the press—that news of the serial numbers be suppressed.

These developments today coincided with a national poll among many prominent editors, taken by the United Press, to show how the press felt toward suggestions that the story should be suppressed or curtailed.

CECIL NEWMAN LOSES 45 HENS

Mr. Newman lost 29 Buff Orpington hens, 15 Rhode Island Red hens, one white hen, and one turkey hen.

Two near neighbors, Ethridge Buis and Oran Buis, also have lost larger flocks of poultry in recent raids.

COURT ORDER AWAITED FOR INSULL FIRM

WILL MAKE EFFECTIVE LARGEST RECEIVERSHIP IN AMERICAN BUSINESS

HUGE HOLDING CORPORATION

Company In Question Touches Industry In Practically Every Important Center In United States

CHICAGO, April 15, (UP)—Samuel Insull, whose Midas touch built the $2,500,000,000 Middle West Utilities Company, and two other Chicago leading business leaders, were appointed today as receivers for the company, the principal unit in Insull's vast utilities network.

CHICAGO, April 15, (UP)—A federal court order was awaited today to make effective the largest receivership American business has ever witnessed—that of the Middle West Utilities Co., Samuel Insull's $2,500,000,000 holding corporation.

The tremendous ramifications of the company which touch industry at virtually every important industrial center of the continent make the receivership perhaps the most important in the history of finance.

Strikingly enough the petition for receivership brought against the gigantic concern the floating debt of which aggregates $6,000,000 is made on an $8,000 bill. The action is friendly and was made by the Lincoln Printing Co., in which a large block of stock is held by Insull interests.

U. S. District Judge James H. Wilkerson, jurist who heard the trial of Al Capone, said he would hear the petition at 10 a. m.

Appointment of three receivers, one of them the white-haired Insull who built the spider-web chain of properties which stretch from New England to the Pacific and across the border into Canada, was expected.

The action has long been anticipated as a means of conserving the depression-stricken assets of the holding concern which controls properties estimated at well over two and a half billion dollars in value. Middle West Utilities itself is a $900,000,000 firm. Insull, whose optimism the prospective receivership could not dampen, hastened to assure investors, that condition of the operating companies was excellent despite poor economic outlook and that only the investment concern was affected.

Revenues of the three largest operating companies, Commonwealth Edison Co., Peoples Gas, Light & Coke Co., and Public Service Co., of Northern Illinois have been maintained on a high level.

Difficulties of the Middle West Utilities arise, as the receivership petition pointed out, from refinancing. Similar action is expected for Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and Corporation Securities Co., of Chicago, investment trusts of the Insull interests and both large holders of Middle West and other Insull securities.

"The action seems unavoidable," a statement by the Middle West directors said, "as the first step toward a reorganization of the company. The action in no way affects subsidiary utility operating companies."

The receivership petition asserted the Middle West Utilities had bank loans of $27,000,000 of which $24,000,000 are demand loans no longer protected by sufficient collateral. In addition $10,000,000 of a $40,000,000 serial gold note issue comes due June 1. Middle West securities holders number about 100,000 holding 15,709,000 shares of common stock priced at 25 cents at yesterday's close and 607,000 shares of preferred stock.

The vast interlocking structure of the Insull interests which the brilliant Chicago industrialist forged out of hundreds of small units is difficult for even the specialist in finance to conceive. The concern was founded in 1912 and grew in giant strides with the growth of the nation.

PLANS INTERESTING SERMON

"If Not Prohibition—What?" will be the subject of the Rev. Albert E. Monger at the church vesper service of the Methodist church Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock. Just now when there is such a drive for the repeal of the 18th amendment of our Constitution we should be facing facts and not propaganda. Are these men right who insist that restoring of the alcohol beverage drink traffic will reduce taxes? What alternatives do we face if we repeal the 18th amendment? Do license and regulation reduce the consumption of narcotics such as alcohol and opium, etc.? Who will profit by restoration of the saloon?

OHIO BLAST PROBE OPENS AT COLUMBUS

$6,000,000 STATE OFFICE BUILDING WRECKED BY EXPLOSION ON THURSDAY

5 KNOWN DEAD; 30 INJURED

Blast Caused By Bombs, Gas or Marble Dust Combustion, Governor Heads Investigation Board

COLUMBUS, O., April 15 (UP)—A disastrous explosion which wrecked the new $6,000,000 state office building yesterday, killing five and injuring nearly 60, was blamed today on bombs, gas or marble dust explosions as an official investigation got under way.

The investigating body was headed by Governor George White and Colonel Carmi Thompson, chairman of the state office building commission.

Thompson would not comment on possible causes of the blast. Other officials were inclined to the theory that it was due to a bombing resulting from labor troubles.

No odor of gas was apparent and no gas piping had been installed in the building, which was nearing completion. Marble dust accumulation in the finishing of the stone work, would not have caused such a violent blast, in their opinion.

Three times during construction, strikes interfered. The state construction board had insisted on the use of union labor.

The possibility that a bomb caused the explosion was expressed by fire chief L. Nice and Frank Henry, chief state marshal, of the basis of a report from assistant fire chief C. W. Ogburn. Ogburn said he detected a "sweet odor" when he first entered the shattered building and thought this odor might have been the fumes of nitroglycerine.

William Green, president of the American federation of labor, telegraphed to T. J. Donnelly, secretary of the local labor federation, urging union support for a thorough investigation.

Nearly 125 men were working at the time of the blast, with three Government building inspectors. Eyewitnesses said the explosion was in the basement and that vast billows of smoke spread over the building immediately. Fire followed.

So violent was the blast that heavy slabs of marble were sent hurtling 300 feet. Bronze doors at the main entrance were torn from their fasteners. Steel window casing were wrenched from the casings. The damage to the building was estimated at $1,000,000 or more.

Bullets Claim Gangster Trio

GANG LEADER AND 2 HENCHMEN RIDDLED BY MACHINE GUN FIRE

MADISON, Ill., April 15, (UP)—A gang leader and two of his henchmen were shot to death by machine gunners near here early today.

The body of Thomas E. (Tommy) Hayes, head of the Hayes gang, was found 20 feet from his wrecked automobile on a main street and later the bodies of his two henchmen, at first reported to have escaped unharmed from Hayes' automobile, were found in another car near Venice, Ill., a few miles away.

One of the two men found near Venice was identified as William Gee, a police character and long an associate of Hayes. The third man was not immediately identified.

Police, in reconstructing the killing, said Hayes and his companions were apparently attempting to escape and as the killers opened fire, Hayes lost control of his big sedan. The automobile crashed through the fence of the Hollywood club, an athletic association, and was wrecked.

INFORMATION WITHHELD

(Continued from page 1) showed editors keenly interested in the question, fully aware of their responsibilities in the situation, and extremely sympathetic toward the major aim of the present investigations—early safe restoration of the kidnapped child to its parents.

Some maintained that publicity is essential, since secrecy and suppression would only place a premium on further kidnappings, encouraging gangsters to feel that they could operate unhampered by the pitiless glare of publicity.

Others held that it was time to eliminate from the stories all speculation; and to follow Lindbergh's requests at any time as to specific cooperation.

The colonel himself added to his note of appreciation the observation—"It is still of utmost importance for us and our representatives to move about without being questioned or followed and we are again requesting the complete cooperation of all members of the press to this end."

For the next two weeks we will make photographs at half price, Camera Studio.

SEED

It is not far away to a place where a young man of unusually good appearance is in serious trouble. He belongs to a highly respected family. He and his elder brother graduated from the same high school and attended the same church. Finances at home were in such condition that it was agreed that the older brother would go to college and the younger work for awhile to supplement the family income and to keep the brother in college. A few days ago a former Sunday school teacher of the younger son visited him in jail where he awaits trial for a hold-up and escape with his victim's automobile. Parents and friends are frantic. The judge hesitates to sentence so prominent a young man for his first offense, but has decided that for the example and in defense of the public good it must be done. In discussing his crime with his Sunday school teacher he described his error as a trip in the dark through ignorance. His work created a new environment and different companions. There arose temptations of a sex and social nature of which he was wholly ignorant. He was completely unarmed and unprepared to face them. He said to his teacher, "You and my parents have given me a good example and good advice but none of you have ever give me the knowledge of myself and possible need of self-mastery to meet real life that I needed. When the testing time came, I lost my head and with it my liberty."

OBITUARY

Orlando Gorham, son of Alexander and Mary Ellen Gorham, was born January 3, 1858. He was stricken with an attack of apoplexy while walking at the corner of College avenue and Poplar street, dying almost instantly on the afternoon of April 9th, 1932.

He was married on October 21st, 1884 to Emma Busby who preceded him in death.

Orlando spent his entire life in Putnam County following the vocation of a successful farmer.

He was the father of eleven children, nine of whom survive him: Claude and George of Belle Union; Mrs. Nellie Arnold, Mrs. Grace Strange, Herbert and Jesse, of Greencastle; Harry of Indianapolis; Mrs. Elsie Penney of Muncie; Mrs. Ethel Boswell of Carpentersville. There are sixteen grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Orlando Gorham was an affectionate husband, grieving at the loss of his helpmate and constantly longing and looking forward to meeting her again before the roses bloomed again.

He has had his "heart's desire" and Oh! what a happy meeting it will be. He was an indulgent father, constantly having the welfare and interests of his children at heart. He was a true and sincere friend. Orlando was not a member of any church. He lived rather by the "Golden Rule". "Do unto others as you wish others to do unto you."

Safe in the arms of Jesus.

Safe on His gentle breast.

There by His love o'er shadowed.

Sweetly my Soul shall rest.

Funeral services were held in the Christian church, Fillmore, Ind., Tuesday afternoon 2 p. m. Burial in Fillmore cemetery. Rev. H. A. Sherrill had charge. Pall bearers were the five surviving sons, and Fred Penney, son-in-law. Flower girls were six granddaughters.
